Before May 13th, 2014:

*If you completely withdraw from your Spring 14 classes any time before midnight on May 13th, 2014:

*University scholarships will be cancelled and you will be required to return all of these funds.
*Pell grants and student loans will be evaluated to determine how much you are required to repay.

*If you are carrying less than the minimum required credits (14 credits for Academic Scholarships and 12 credits for full Pell grants and other University scholarships) as of midnight on May 13th, 2014 and you have a(n):

*Academic Scholarships – The entire amount of your scholarship will be cancelled and you will be required to return all of these funds.

*Pell Grants and / or University Scholarships – The amount of your Pell Grant and/or University Scholarships will be prorated according to the change in credits. If you drop below the six credit minimum for scholarships, your scholarship will be cancelled and you will be required to return the money.

*NOTE: You must be registered for Second Block classes by May 13th, 2014 in order for your total credits to count toward your financial aid. Waitlisted classes do NOT count. You must be actually enrolled in the class.

After May 13th, 2014:

*If you completely withdraw or reduce your credits after May 13th, 2014 – You will not be required to return your university scholarships.

*If you completely withdraw or reduce your credits after May 13th, 2014 – Your Pell grants and student loans will be evaluated to determine how much you are required to repay.

*If you drop any or all of your Spring 2014 classes after May 13th, 2014, you will receive “W” grades on your transcript. Additionally, if you withdraw from all of your Spring 2014 classes and it is an on-track semester, you will be considered withdrawn from the university and will be required to reapply and be readmitted to continue your enrollment at BYU-Idaho. For additional information about academic and registration deadlines, please review the Academic Catalog and Academic Deadlines at www.byui.edu/srr.