

W. Kent Lundin

Kent Lundin was born in Mesa, Arizona and raised in Lake Havasu City, Arizona where he graduated from Lake Havasu High School.

He began his undergraduate education at Brigham Young University (BYU) where he completed his freshman year in 1980 prior to serving a two-year mission in the Washington-Spokane Mission. After his mission he returned to BYU and completed his bachelor's degree in accounting.

After graduation, he went to work for the accounting firm of Ernst & Young (then Ernst & Whitney) in Phoenix, Arizona as a tax accountant where he worked until he returned to BYU to start the MBA program at the Marriott School of Management program.

While attending BYU, he fell in love with and married Julie Berry of Escondido, California. After completing his MBA, Brother Lundin and a friend started their own company which led to his getting a job at Capsoft Development Corporation, a small computer software company. He worked with Capsoft for almost seven years until he decided to pursue a teaching career in higher education.

His first teaching job was with Ozarks Technical Community College in Springfield, Missouri. Next he took a job in Visalia, California at College of the Sequoias (COS) where he stayed for four years. He left COS in 2001 to join the Business Management department at BYU-I where he is currently teaching marketing classes.

Brother and Sister Lundin are the parents of eight children.
