

Keeping in Touch

I attended Ricks College in 1977 majoring in elementary education. I really enjoyed being there. I lived in an off-campus apartment complex with five other girls from different states. It was very cold that winter. Being from Texas, I wasn't used to that kind of weather. I had to walk everywhere I went and couldn't wait until spring. It was a great experience trying to get along with others. Thank you for sending these magazines!

Thanks for Services

I read the article ["Students Supporting Students"] in the Spring 2006 Summit and just wanted to thank everyone at the Learning Center. I used their services at Ricks five years ago, and I am so grateful for the program and the students who tutor. I know I am just one person, but I wanted to thank you all for the help you give to students. I am one student in whose life you made a difference.

Recognizing the Innovations

I appreciate the Summit Magazine. I really enjoyed the article ["Students Supporting Students"] about the Department of Academic Learning. I am so impressed with the whole concept of learning stations and students helping students. I can see how BYU-Idaho has very innovative programs to achieve a level of excellence that is rarely found on university campuses. I wish such a program had existed where I attended. Perhaps I would have done a better job in the science classes I found so difficult.

Inspiration from the Archives

As an alumnus I greatly appreciate the audio archive of speeches given at BYU-Idaho [see www.byui.edu/presentations]. I recently listened to, via the audio streaming, an address by Sterling W. Sill, one of my heroes. Being able to hear his voice and message after thirty years is a great blessing. The vision of service is being realized. A sincere thank you!

Viewing the Rexburg Temple Site

September 21, 2006—what a wonderful time to be on earth! There was a special event today. It was an amazing and joyful experience for me to sit in my living room in Bowling Green, Ky., and view [via www.byui.edu/webcameras] the placement of a goldleaf covered statue of the Angel Moroni and his trumpet atop the spire of the temple under construction in Rexburg, Idaho. I am thankful to all who made such an amazing event possible.

Comment from the Online Survey

I learned who I was and what I valued during my Ricks College years—very valuable information. Thank you for offering this opportunity for me to keep in touch with this wonderful place!
