EDUCATION WEEK

~ AT BYU-IDAHO ~

JULY 30-AUGUST 1, 2009

BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY
IDAHO

Welcome to Education Week at Brigham Young University–Idaho. This beautiful campus has been consecrated as a place of learning and inspiration. During your time here, you will have the opportunity to learn from brothers and sisters who are prepared to help you enhance your understanding and fortify your testimony. I invite you to take full advantage of this unique opportunity to gather and to learn.

The theme of this year’s Education Week comes from Doctrine and Covenants 101:64: “Gathering of Saints ... For The Time of Harvest is Come.”

The principle of gathering is discussed throughout scripture. In the New Testament, the Savior explains, “I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine” (John 10:14).

The Savior knows each of us personally and promises to gather His people, that they may hear His voice. “And there shall be one fold, and one shepherd” (John 10:16). When we gather near to the Lord, He draws near to us. We hear His voice, learn of Him, and find rest to our souls.

May we use this special time to strengthen our love for Jesus Christ and be counted as His. “And it shall come to pass that the righteous shall be gathered out from among all nations, and shall come to Zion, singing with songs of everlasting joy” (Doctrine and Covenants 45: 71).

I hope this experience at Education Week will enrich your life and deepen your devotion to the gospel. On behalf of the entire BYU–Idaho community, welcome to campus.

Best regards,

Kim B. Clark
President

DRESS STANDARDS

All participants at BYU-Idaho Education Week are required to uphold dress, grooming, and conduct standards for BYU-Idaho. Dress and grooming standards for all participants should be modest and clean. Clothing should be modest in fabric, fit, and style. Shorts of any length should not be worn as well as sleeveless shirts or tank tops. Comfortable clothing including dresses and ankle-length slacks/pants are appropriate. The BYU-Idaho dress code has been approved by the Church Board of Education governed by the Presidency of the Church.

LOST AND FOUND

Any article found should be taken to a host or a hosting table in the building where it is found. At the end of each day, all articles will be taken to Education Week Headquarters located in the Taylor Building (TAY) Room 147. After BYU-Idaho Education Week, all lost and found items will be turned over to the BYU-Idaho Lost and Found office located in the Manwaring Center Room 238. The campus Lost and Found phone number is (208) 496-2238.

PARKING INFORMATION

Due to the fact that classes are not in session, on-campus parking will be open to the public, and parking passes will not be required. However, please observe normal parking rules and regulations such as parking in the roadways, red/yellow curbs, service, and handicap stalls. RV parking on campus is available in the "baseball parking lot" across from the Auxiliary Services Building (ASB).

REGISTRATION INFORMATION

Each person attending Education Week must be registered and have his or her own ticket. Your ticket represents your registration and may not be given to another person or shared between students. Tickets are not transferable. You must wear your ticket to be admitted to each class.

PREREGISTRATION

Preregistration began on Thursday, March 3. We encourage you to preregister online. Registrations will also be accepted by mail, phone, or in person. For information on registering for housing, see the housing information section.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONSWhy can't I bring a baby or children under the age of 14?

Education Week, by design, is meant to give adults and young adults an academic and spiritual experience with minimal distractions. We are trying to provide an atmosphere that makes learning easy and enjoyable. Children under 14 may easily become disinterested and disruptive. For these reasons, we instruct the room hosts not to admit children under 14 or individuals with babies into classrooms.

Why is the BYU-Idaho dress code different from BYU and BYU-Hawaii?

All Church Education System institutions have different dress codes. Each is unique to the institution and each dress code has been approved by the Church Board of Education governed by the President of the Church.

Can I give my pass to someone else?

Education Week passes are non-transferable. Each student must be registered to attend, and each student must wear their own nametag. The handling of mailings, housing assignments, refunds, specific questions, and emergency situations deem it necessary that the information in our system be accurate on each attendee.

Can I record classes, lectures, or musicals?

In recording, we run the risk of copyright violations on printed or recorded material. Copyrights can cover not just printed works but also ideas, arrangements, and other creative works. Copyright violation, even unintentionally or for personal use, is illegal. Please do not impose on the teacher by asking them for permission to break this policy.

Can I save seats in classes or musical performances?

Education Week classes are on a first-come, first-served basis. If you are saving seats, you must give up your seats when the room becomes full. Saving seats after a room has filled, puts everyone in an awkward situation. Please be courteous and release your seats when the class is full.

Why can't I bring an extra chair or just stand in the back when a classroom is full?

Building, safety, and fire codes will not allow us to fill a room beyond its legal capacity. Please understand if an usher asks you to kindly attend another class, they are simply following campus and state regulations.

Why can't you move a speaker to a larger room when the class reaches capacity?

When scheduling the rooms for Education Week, we take into consideration a myriad of factors so we can provide the facilities that will best suit the student and the teacher. We try to anticipate as many elements as we can, including past class attendance and predictions. We use 5 buildings on campus and 17 rooms; combine that with nearly 50 presenters and 150 hosts who each have teaching time preferences and technological requests. Simply moving one teacher will affect all elements of the schedule.

Why don't you use larger rooms?

We already use the largest rooms on campus. With the many rooms on this campus, only 7 rooms hold more than 200 people. This is one of the reasons we offer so many classes each hour and utilize most of the rooms that hold more than 60 people.

What if a class I have chosen is full?

Many people have had the experience described by this Education Week participant: "When I couldn't get in the class I wanted, I went into any class close by that had room. I found it to be just as exciting and informative as the first-choice class. Every class was good." You may discover whole new areas of interest and that is part of what Education Week is all about.

Doesn't my program pass guarantee me a seat in each class?

Education Week classes are on a first-come, first-served basis. Approximately 2,000 participants may attend Education Week this year. Obviously if everyone wanted to go to the same class, no one class can hold that many students. We do promise to have enough capacity during each hour of each day to accommodate all participants in a variety of classrooms.

When is Education Week going to be held next year?

July 29 - July 31, 2010
