Introduction

Ours is a world in which all types of formal and informal interaction between peoples of varied backgrounds and languages is increasingly possible and important. During this era of rapid globalization, more than ever before everyone can benefit from the vital skills of languages, cultural knowledge, and global competency.

In the Doctrine and Covenants we are counseled to learn “of things which are at home [and] things which are abroad: the wars and the perplexities of the nations, and the judgments which are on the land, and a knowledge also of countries and of kingdoms—that ye may be prepared in all things when I shall send you again to magnify the calling whereunto I have called you, and the mission with which I have commissioned you” (Doctrine and Covenants 88:79-80). We are further counseled in the 90th Section to “study and learn, and become acquainted with all good books, and with languages, tongues, and people” (Doctrine and Covenants 90:15).

International Studies (major, minor, and cluster)

The purpose of the International Studies program (major, minor, and cluster) is to provide an avenue for students wishing to maximize the opportunity for linguistic and international competence while developing a disciplinary specialty that would allow them to enter the workforce directly or prepare them for graduate school in a number of different disciplines or professions. This degree is unique in its modular structure, including a core in Economics, History, Geography, and Political Science, area studies in culture, and the flexibility to choose a minor or clusters. Students must demonstrate language proficiency at the third-year level. Students may also take a minor or cluster in International Studies.

Languages (majors, minors and clusters)

The Department of Languages and International Studies at BYU-Idaho helps students to build speaking, listening, reading, and writing skills, as well as cultural awareness, in five languages from the beginning to advanced level (Chinese, French, German, Russian, and Spanish). Programs exist to meet student needs in the following areas:

Majors

- Spanish Education
- International Studies

Concentrations

- Spanish (see IDS)
- International Studies (see IDS)

Education Minors

- Chinese
- French
- German
- Russian
- Spanish
- TESOL education

Minors

- Single language - Chinese, French, German, Russian, Spanish, TESOL
- Area - Asian Languages, European Languages, Latin American Languages, Slavic and East European Languages, World Languages
- Multi-Lingual - Afrikaans, Albanian, Arabic, Armenian, Bulgarian, Cambodian, Cantonese, Cebuano, Croatian, Czech, Danish, Dutch, Estonian, Farsi-Persian, Fijian, Finnish, Georgian, Greek (modern), Guarani, Haitian-Creole, Hiligaynon, Hmong, Hungarian, Icelandic, Ilonggo/Hiligaynon, Indonesian, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Latvian, Lithuanian, Malagasy, Malay, Maori, Mongolian, Navajo, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Quechua, Romanian, Samoan, Serbian, Swedish, Tagalog, Tahitian, Thai, Tongan, Ukrainian, and Vietnamese, Welsh.
- International Studies

These minors are not available to native speakers of these languages. Students who wish to minor in these languages must first pass the BYU FLATS exam in their language of study.

Credit by Exam

Returned missionaries and others with extensive non-academic foreign language experience should begin their studies at the 202 level (302 for Spanish) and may test out of 101, 102 and 201 if they need these courses. For information about foreign language credit by exam, visit our department website at <http://www.byui.edu/languages-international-studies>. Native speakers are ineligible for these exams. Because credit and time constraints are tight, students with high school language experience should begin their studies at the highest level possible. A placement exam may help determine which course you should take, based on your ability. This exam can be found at <http://www.byui.edu/languages-international-studies/language-exams/placement-exam>. For more information, visit or email a teacher in the language you wish to study.

Native speakers should begin at the 321 level in French, German and Spanish, at the 301 level in Chinese and at the 202 level in Russian. However, if the native speaker is an education major or education minor in a language, he or she should begin studies at the 202 level (302 in Spanish). Non-native speakers working in other foreign languages may fulfill this requirement by testing out of at least eight credits in the language rather than taking Language 410.

Languages and International Studies
 Brigham Young University-Idaho 2014-2015

Note: Students who are interested in obtaining a language teaching minor (which requires proof of language proficiency on the Praxis exam) and who have not already lived in the target country, are strongly encouraged to participate in a semester abroad or equivalent program.

INTST 398R Internship in Int'l Studies (3:0:0)

Repeatable Course: may earn maximum of 6 credits

An internship is a cooperative program between the BYU-Idaho International Studies program and an approved organization. Professional internships correlate actual work experience with course work, provide students with knowledge of career opportunities, and give students work experience in preparation for employment or graduate school upon graduation. The student, in consultation with the program's internship coordinator, develops ideas for internships. In some cases, study abroad experience may be used to fill this requirement.
(Winter, Spring, Fall)

INTST 399R International Studies Experience (3:3:0)

Repeatable Course: may earn maximum of 6 credits

The International Studies Experience is required for students not completing INTST 398R (Internship in International Studies). The student, in consultation with the International Studies internship coordinator, selects a foreign study experience related to language and area focus. Students are required to purchase emergency medical insurance through BYU-Idaho.
