The internet and emerging technology have transformed many areas of our lives including business, entertainment, education, and the Church's reach to members and non-members alike around the world. Within industry, there is a great need for professionals who can effectively use the latest technologies to design and develop professional interactive web sites.

Combining the interdisciplinary resources of the Art, Business Management, Communication, Computer Information Technology, and Computer Science department's students may choose from a variety of integrated web design and development programs.

General advisement questions should be directed to the College of Business and Communication Academic Discovery Center, Smith 227, (208) 496-9840

WDD 100 Introduction to Web Design/Development

(1:1:0)

This course introduces students to the World Wide Web and to careers in web site design and development. The course is hands on with students actually participating in simple web designs and programming. It is anticipated that students who complete this course will understand the fields of web design and development and will have a good idea if they want to pursue this degree as a major.

(Winter, Spring, Fall)

WDD 398 Internship

(3:0:0)

Students will be employed full-time as a web designer or developer for one semester.

(Winter, Spring, Fall)
