Department of Music

Introduction
The Department of Music at Brigham Young University–Idaho is an accredited institutional member of the National Association of Schools of Music. The Mission of the Department of Music is to:
- Use music to further the Lord’s work.
- Promote music that is virtuous, lovely, of good report and praiseworthy.
- Prepare music majors for successful music-related careers.
- Teach musical excellence as a model for the pursuit of excellence in life.
- Help students use their musical gifts to serve the Lord, their families, and their communities.

The Department is housed in the Eliza R. Snow Center for the Performing Arts, a beautiful and well-equipped facility. The faculty and facilities provide a superior environment for the serious student of music. In addition, the Department offers a diversity of opportunities for the non-music major to develop musical skills.

Degrees
The BYU–Idaho Department of Music offers four baccalaureate degrees: Bachelor of Arts (687), Bachelor of Musical Arts (690), Bachelor of Music in Performance (693), and Bachelor of Music in Music Education (890). The Bachelor of Arts in Music degree (BA) is a liberal arts degree designed to give students a broad education with a general emphasis in music. Students use this degree to prepare for career tracks requiring a broad education or for preparation for graduate studies in non-music fields such as medical, dental, law, business, or other professional studies. The Bachelor of Musical Arts degree (BMA) is a professional music degree, providing a concentrated emphasis in music fields such as string studies, composition, or in mixed musical emphasis areas. This degree also requires students to pursue significant studies in a secondary non-music discipline.

The Bachelor of Music is a professional degree in music and is available with either education (BMED) or performance (BM) emphases. Students interested in a Music Therapy degree should contact the Advising Center for assistance in planning options. Music therapy degrees are not offered at BYU–Idaho, but course planning is offered to assist students in transferring to accredited music therapy programs.

Tracks
All music degrees and programs are available and offered on each of the three admission tracks (Fall/Winter, Winter/Spring, Spring/Fall). However, Bachelor of Music Jazz Studies majors with a Spring/Fall track must change tracks to either Fall/Winter or Winter/Spring for their final three or four semesters of study. By completing the prescribed semester-by-semester course sequencing for each degree, all music degrees can be completed in an eight-semester or four-year time frame. Contact the Advising Center for specific major, track and course sequencing. [See Academic Advising below.]

Ensembles
The Department of Music has twenty-five different performance ensembles. These include both auditioned and open-enrollment orchestras, bands, choirs, chamber ensembles, etc., for both music majors and non-music majors. Each music degree requires a specific number of semesters of ensemble enrollment.

Ensemble Auditions
Auditions for choir are typically held one or two days before classes begin each semester. Instrumental ensemble auditions are usually held the first day or two of classes. Consult the Department webpage for more details (www.byui.edu/music).

Music Major Admissions
Students desiring to pursue a music degree must complete a two-stage admissions process: 1) a student must be accepted as a music major before enrolling in music major courses, and 2) be granted “continuing major status” upon successful completion of the first year of course work.

1. Students must be accepted as a music major before registering for the first semester of major classes. This initial admissions process includes: submitting the Music Admissions Application, performing a solo audition, and taking the Musicianship Placement Exam (music theory). The Music Admissions Application is separate from the University Application and is submitted online. All of these materials are generally due February 1st for enrollment in the following school year. This initial admissions process is the same for all students, whether transfer student or incoming freshman. Detailed information about the application, audition requirements and procedures, and instructions for taking the Musicianship Exam can be found on the Department website.

2. After a student has been accepted as a music major and begun taking Freshman-level classes, a Continuing Major Status Application must be completed. This application is due at the end of a student’s second semester of course work at the successful completion of all of the following classes, as required for the intended degree.
MUSIC 102 (Music in Western Civilization)
MUSIC 155 (Introductory Vocal Methods) or MUSIC 160 (Applied Lessons – Instrumental 1)
MUSIC 161 (Applied Lessons 2)
MUSIC 172 (Musicianship 1)
MUSIC 173 (Musicianship 2)
MUSIC 156 (Basic Piano Skills) or pass the Basic Piano Skills Proficiency Exam.

For more information, see “Freshman Course Sequence” below. Music Majors have two semesters to complete these courses. The “Continuing Status Application” should be submitted to the Department of Music before the end of the semester in which all prerequisites will be completed. After the application is submitted and all prerequisite courses are completed, a student may then be granted “Continuing Major Status,” be accepted to a specific degree program, and then cleared to register for music major courses for the following on-track semester.

Music Education Majors
Students pursuing a degree in Music Education are required to visit and observe public school music programs before submitting the “Continuing Major Status Application,” due before a student may register for third-semester or Sophomore-level classes. Listed below are the requirements pertaining to the observation. Students will:

1. Observe a total of twenty (20) class periods: two levels of secondary schools, a beginning level in the area of their emphasis (choir, band, or orchestra), and ancillary music classes (guitar, theory, general music, etc.). Students will be required to keep a journal and record their observations.

2. Write a paper discussing their observations, an interview with one of the classroom teachers, and their personal reflections regarding a career in music education. This paper should be attached to the “Continuing Major Status Application.”

Music Major Denial
If a student is not accepted as a music major in the initial stage, the student is strongly encouraged to contact the studio teacher of the instrument of choice or specialty for information about options. These may include possible remediation work to prepare for future music major acceptance, or options to pursue a music minor, participate in ensembles, and/or take any of several music courses that are open to all majors.

If a student is initially accepted as a music major, but is later denied “Continuing Major Status” at the end of the second semester of coursework, the student will need a major change to something other than music. Students who have not completed this change of major by the first day of the next semester will have their major changed automatically to General Studies (399). Only students who are granted “Continuing Major Status” will be able to continue in many higher-level music courses that require music major status for registration. For students who are not granted “Continuing Major Status,” all of the prerequisite music courses taken in the first two semesters can be used to fill the requirements of either a music minor or music cluster.

Maintaining Music Major Status
Once receiving “Continuing Major Status,” students must continue to make timely progress towards completion of their specific degree program. Failure to pass any individual required music course with a C- or better after two attempts (registrations) will result in the loss of continuing major status. After being notified by the Department of Music of such a loss of status, students will need to change their major to something other than music. Those students who have not completed this change of major by the first day of the next semester will have their major changed automatically to General Studies (399).

Transfer Music Majors
All transfer students will be required to follow the same admissions procedure as incoming freshman, including a preliminary application, audition, and Musicianship Exam. [See “Music Major Admission” above.] The “Continuing Status Application” should be completed by the end of the student’s first semester of study at BYU-Idaho. Students who are not granted “Continuing Major Status” by the end of their first semester will need to change their major to something other than music. Students who have not completed this change of major by the first day of the next semester will have their major changed automatically to General Studies (399). It is strongly recommended that all potential transfer music major students contact the Department of Music prior to making final plans to transfer to BYU-Idaho.

Credit Requirements
All baccalaureate degrees at BYU-Idaho require 120 completed credit hours. Due to the comprehensive nature of the Bachelor of Music degrees (890 and 693) there are no additional course requirements. Bachelor of Musical Arts degrees (690) require 60 specified music credits and 18 additional credits in a field outside of music or in a course of studies designed to develop a particular discrete competence with an interdisciplinary or multidisciplinary approach. The Bachelor of Arts degree (687) requires only enough additional elective credits to reach the 120-credit requirement.

Approved Instruments/Specialties for Majors
Music degrees are offered in flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, saxophone, horn, trumpet, trombone, euphonium, tuba, percussion, voice, violin, viola, cello, string bass, piano, organ, harp (BA only), guitar (BA only), and composition (BMA only). Additionally, the Bachelor of Music in Music Education (890) degree is not offered in piano, organ, harp, guitar, or composition. The Bachelor of Music in Jazz Studies (693-90) degree is only offered in string bass, saxophone, trumpet, trombone, percussion, and jazz piano.

Music Major Prerequisites
Below is a general description of skills and knowledge that a student should have before pursuing a music degree. These proficiencies will be evaluated through the initial admissions process, including the application, audition, and Musicianship Placement Exam. [See “Music Major Admission” above.] Check the music department website for more details.

1. A significant degree of technical mastery and musicianship on a primary instrument. Remedial courses: Music 104 (vocal) or Music 158 (instrumental).

2. An understanding and familiarity with the basic music theory principles, including:
   • Pitch identification in treble and bass clef
   • Interval identification (M2, P4, M6, etc)
   • Durational symbols of notes and rests (including dots)
   • Identification of simple vs compound meter
   • Understand correct beaming of beats
   • Build major and minor scales
   • Write and identify major and minor key signatures
   • Build major and minor triads and dominant 7th chords
   • Sight-sing a basic diatonic melody
   • Read a rhythm at sight

Rudimentary technical skills on the piano, including the ability to play simple four-part hymns and simple two-part pieces such as the March in D Major from the Anna Magdalena Bach Book.

Remedial Course: Music 156 - Basic Piano. [See “Piano Proficiency Requirement” below.]

Piano Proficiency Requirement
All incoming music students (except piano and organ majors) must do one of the following in their first or second semester before submitting the “Continuing Major Application”. (1) Pass the “Piano Skills Proficiency Exam” explained below (Music 256, section 1). (2) Complete Music 156 - Basic Piano. This remedial course teaches the basic piano skills required to succeed as a music major. (3) Pass the “Basic Piano Proficiency Exam.” This exam tests the same remedial basic skills taught in Music 156. The exam consists of playing the following pieces with appropriate fingerings, rhythms, and notes:

a. Three hymns from Hymns Made Easy – pp. 12, 14, 40 (or equivalent)
b. Wild Rider by Schumann (or equivalent)

d. Play blocked triads and one octave arpeggios going up chromatically (much like a choir warm-up).

Following the successful completion of one of these three options and all other applicable music major prerequisites [see “Music Major Acceptance” above] a student may submit an application for acceptance into a specific music degree program. Accepted music majors who have not previously done so must then complete one of the following options before the end of their fourth semester (transfer students before the end of their second semester) at BYU-Idaho and prior to beginning Music 213 or any other junior-level music major courses. (1) Complete Music 256 - Piano Skills. This course focuses on supplemental piano skills beyond the M156 basic level. (2) Pass the “Piano Skills Proficiency Exam.” This exam tests the same skills taught in Music 256. The exam consists of the following pieces and skills and will be graded based on appropriate fingerings, rhythms, and notes:

I. Repertoire
   a. First movement of Kuhlau Sonatina op. 55 #1
   b. Minuet in G Major, BWV Anh. 116 from Notebook for Anna Magdalena Bach
   c. A four-part hymn of your choice
   d. Basic sight reading

II. Specific Skills
   a. Play all major and minor scales two octaves with I-IV-V-I-V7 chord progression with each scale.
   b. Be able to read and realize lead sheet symbols to accompany a melody using I, IV, V.
   c. Play a simple melody at sight harmonized with the appropriate chords (I, IV, V) to go with the melody; transpose the same melody and supporting chords to a key that the teacher chooses.
   d. Play blocked triads and one octave arpeggios going up chromatically (much like a choir warm-up).
Academic Advising
It is important that all students meet in an advising session to set up a multi-year academic plan. After the academic plan is set, general advising continues to be done by the Advising Center. For assistance with course planning, general academic advising, and answers to many other related questions, visit the Advising Center in the Manwaring Center, Room 376, e-mail inquiries to cpvacademicdiscoverycenter@byui.edu, or contact an advisor directly at (208) 496-9870.

Transfer and A.P. Music Credit
Students who have had coursework in music theory and ear training (transfer or high school Advanced Placement) must demonstrate their proficiency in these areas in order to determine whether their prior coursework will apply towards their BYU–Idaho music degree. The exam is administered before the beginning of each semester, after which students will be advised as to which courses in BYU–Idaho musicianship sequence they still need to complete. The dates of the exam are as follows:

Fall 2016: Friday, September 9
Winter 2017: Wednesday, January 4
Spring 2017: Friday, April 14

All exams will begin at 2:00 p.m. in Snow 185. A study guide for this exam is available at www.byui.edu/music. Additionally, all transfer students should contact the Advising Center before registering for any classes at BYU–Idaho. [See Academic Advising above.]

Juries
Each semester all students enrolled in Music 155, 160, 161, 260, 261, 360, 361 or 460 (applied music major lessons) must complete a jury examination to determine final grades and achievement levels. A “D” or “F” jury grade will result in the same grade for the final semester grade for the course. Students will perform before faculty in their area and must successfully pass all juries as required in order to advance to the next level.

A pre-recital hearing to a faculty panel at least three weeks prior to the scheduled recital date is required for Music 462 and may be required for Music 365. A written theoretical and historical analysis/description of the music to be performed is also a component of this course.

Lower Division Performance Requirement
Accepted music majors and music majors are required to perform solo or chamber music in public performance for a minimum of 25 minutes during their first two years. Regularly scheduled afternoon recitals and other approved performance opportunities are available. Recital time is monitored by the private instructor.

Concert Attendance
Attendance at eight live concerts is required of all prospective music majors and music majors during their first six semesters of juried lessons (Music 155 or 160, 161, 260, 261, 360, 361 or 365) Failure to complete the concert attendance requirement will result in a failing grade for the associated class as listed above for that semester.

Applied Music Lessons
More than fifty music faculty provide training in private lesson settings for both music majors and non-music majors. Typically music major lessons consist of ten 60-minute lessons per semester and a one-hour weekly master class. Non-major lessons consist of ten 30-minute lessons per semester. See “Course Descriptions” for additional information concerning specific area prerequisites.

Applied Music Lesson Fees
• Music 104 - $100
• Music 155 - $133
• Music 158 - $200
• Music 160, 161, 260, 261, 360, 361, 365, 460, 462 - $400

No deductions in fees will be made for lessons missed by students. In the case of serious illness, the instructor should be notified before the lesson so that make-up lessons may be arranged.

Refund for Applied Music Instruction: In the event that a student withdraws from applied lessons before the end of the semester, refunds for fees will be computed on the following basis:

Before a lesson is scheduled with a teacher Full Amount
During the second week of lessons 90%
During the third week of lessons 70%
During the fourth week of lessons 50%
During the fifth week of lessons None

Students are limited to the following maximum number of semester registrations for all the Applied Music Lessons/Courses listed above. This maximum number of semesters includes the total of any and all of these courses taken, both those for music majors and those for non-music majors.
• Bachelor of Music (BM) and Bachelor of Musical Arts (BMA) majors - 10 semesters maximum.
• Bachelor of Music Education (BMED) majors - 9 semesters maximum.
• Bachelor of Arts in Music (BA) majors - 8 semesters maximum.
• All other non-music majors - 8 semesters maximum.

Course Descriptions

MUSIC 101 Music and the Humanities
This course is designed to acquaint the student with our musical heritage and its relationship to history and the other arts. It will also help the student acquire a basic musical vocabulary useful for discussing and writing about music. Curriculum is to be determined by instructor, i.e., classical emphasis, jazz emphasis, etc.

(Fall, Winter, Spring)

MUSIC 102 Music in Western Civilization
This course focuses upon the study of music within the history and humanities of Western Civilization. In addition to the fundamental knowledge of western civilization students will also develop fundamental listening and writing skills, anticipating the more advanced requirements of the required upper-division music history and literature sequence. Successful completion of Music 102, 301, 302, and 303 satisfies the Foundations World requirement.

(Fall, Winter, Spring)

MUSIC 103 Group Vocal Instruction
Repeatable Course: May earn maximum of 4 credits
Total Course Fees: $100.00
This is an introductory voice class for students not majoring in voice. Required as a prerequisite for taking private non-major vocal lessons (Music 158D). The course involves individual instruction for one hour per week class instruction, plus weekly one-hour, four-person, semi-private lessons.

(Fall, Winter, Spring)

MUSIC 105 Class Piano Instruction
This course is designed for the beginning piano student. The course is taught in a group setting. It is required for students not majoring in music. The course requires five hours of practice per week for an A grade. At the end of the course students will be able to play hymns from the Hymns Made Easy (green, spiral bound book). If one can play the standard hymns take Music 158A (Private piano lessons for non-piano majors - required fee).

(Fall, Winter, Spring)

MUSIC 106 Group Organ Instruction
This course studies the fundamentals of manual and pedal technique, elementary repertoire, elementary registration, and hymn playing.

(Fall, Winter, Spring)

MUSIC 107 Class Piano Instruction
This is a sequel course to Music 105. The course is designed for the beginning piano student who has the equivalent background to play from Hymns Made Easy. At the end of the class students will be able to play hymns from the Simplified Hymn Book (tan, hardcover book). If you can play the standard hymns take Music 158A (private piano lessons for non-piano majors - required fee).

(Fall, Winter, Spring)

MUSIC 109 Group Guitar Instruction
This course is designed for the beginning guitar student. The course is designed to acquaint the student with our musical heritage and its relationship to history and the other arts. It will also help the student acquire a basic musical vocabulary useful for discussing and writing about music. Curriculum is to be determined by instructor, i.e., classical emphasis, jazz emphasis, etc.
